Chancery Notice.

State of Michigan. The Circuit Court for Van Buren county, in Chancery.

J. A. Rolleston, complainant, vs. Erastus Corning and the unknown heirs, legatees, devisees and assigns of Erastus Corning, defendant.

Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the county of Van Buren, in Chancery.

At the village of Paw Paw in said county on the 21st day of July, A. D. 1910.

In this cause appearing from proofs on file that the defendants, Erastus Corning or his unknown heirs, legatees, devisees or assigns at one time had some title interest, claim or lien or possible right of estate in and to some of the lands hereinafter described which had not been conveyed or released, and it appearing from such proofs that it cannot be ascertained where said Erastus Corning resides or who are his unknown heirs, legatees, devisees or assigns;

Therefore, on motion of Thos. J. Cavanaugh, solicitor for the complainant, it is ordered that said defendants named and one named, known and unknown enter their appearance in this cause on or before four months from the date of this order and that within ninety days the complainant cause this order to be published in The True Northerner, said notice to be continued once in each week for six weeks in successive issues.

WHERE THEY LEFT MARGARET

Reckless Chauffeur Who Was Tardily
Informed of the Loss of One of His Passengers.

"Speaking of automobile speeding," said a man who drives his own car, "I heard a good one the other day. A young Irishman who, having left home and made a lot of money, was visited by his two married sisters, neither of whom had ever ridden in an automobile. So, he planned for them a trip in his automobile, thinking they would enjoy both the novelty of the ride and the city sights. With a view to a little fun at his sisters' expense, he told the chauffeur to 'let 'er out' as much as was consistent with safety, at the same time warning the sisters that they shouldn't speak to the chauffeur as he was a very nervous man and mustn't be disturbed when he was driving a car."

"Everything was quiet in the tonneau while the driver went rushing out into the suburbs and through the parks. Sometimes it was on four wheels and sometimes on two, but there was no protest. He had entered into the spirit of the affair, and he made up his mind he would make those women cry 'enough.' So he picked out some rough going and humped the bumps for a half hour. Finally the younger sister leaned forward and touched him timidly on the shoulder.

"Excuse me," she said trembling, "I know I ought not to speak to you, but I thought I ought to say that we left Margaret some ten minutes back."—Columbus Dispatch.

SENSIBLE MOTHER OF BOYS UNEARTHED WHALE'S BONES

Had Made Up Her Mind to Welcome
Daughters-in-Law and Love
Them.

No small number of men and women are acquiring sons and daughters-in-law these days, and the thought of it brings to mind the conversation of two women, one the mother of a boy, the other the mother of four of them.

Said the first:
"It will not be long now until Jim will want to be marrying. I dread the thought of it."

"Why?" questioned the mother of the four.

"I may not care for the girl."
"Well," said the other, "when my boys were small I figured it out in this way: If my boy could see enough in some girl to love her, marry her, and be willing to spend the rest of his days with her, surely there must be something in that girl I could find to like. I went on through the years expecting to love these four girls because they were the loved of my boys, and it has worked. I've two of the four daughters-in-law now, and I love them dearly for their own sakes. But I don't believe I would have had I dreaded the day."

Just a little story for the parents and parents-in-law of the brides and grooms to ponder over.

His Revenge.
"You shouldn't have proposed to me," she said gently. "You might have known I'd refuse you."

"I did know," he said savagely, "or I wouldn't have proposed."—Baltimore American.

Parental Blunder.
"I know it's ridiculous for me to powder my face so thickly," said the dashing brunette, "but my parents named me Pearl, and I've got to live up to the name."

Dredgers Lay Bare Skeleton of a
Twenty-Footer—One Dredge
Brings Up a Diamond.

In cutting away the bank of the creek a mile from the ocean on Hewlett's Bay, the New York Sun says, workmen employed on the dredger Florida came across the skeleton of a 20-foot whale 12 feet below the surface of the meadows. The men had secured the vertebrae and head and were digging for the rest of the frame when the storm put an end to operations.

The large suction pipe of the dredger has brought to light many articles, some of them valuable. Two weeks ago a diamond ring worth $100 was brought up. Just inside the suction pipe is a box which contains a magnet and all metal substances drop into the box, while the mud and dirt pass over it.

The World's Best Runners.
The best runners in the world are said to be a race of Indians living near the Gulf of California. They are known as Seris, and number only some 400. In the open country far women and children catch hares on hand without any effort and kill them. The men, however, look upon this as child's play, and usually resort to back and capture antelope, deer and wild buffalo. The wisest hares cannot outrun these foot-loose Indians, who to form on foot the same feat as the cowboy on his broncho. A hare can be seen driving horses round and round in an increased track, and when this hare got up a good speed one of the barriers is removed and a hare dashes into the prairie at full speed. It has not gone 120 yards when the hare has brought on with a jump of a yard, and he has found a hare to kill, seized its mate with a spear and thrown it to the ground.
